

DataStorage has multiple methods that are able to add records to a patients account, retrieve the records of a patient and retrieve all existing patients. This is possible thanks to patientMap. Each patient has a list of records and it is possible to add new records and retrieve records.

DataReader has a method readData that is able to display the data storage in a certain way.